

Today our one room schoolhouse will be...

A place where the love of learning is cultivated.

A place where I pour out life into my children, instead of drain it.

A place where children are celebrated for who they are and not what they do.

A place where mistakes are an opportunity for God to display His grace.

A place where we will find God, so we may know God and make Him known.

ALifeSurrendered.com